FRANTIC FROM LIQUOR ALEXANDRIA'S CHANCES 14-YEAR-OLD CRIMINAL

Female Dipsonianae Denudes Herself and Shrieks Throughout The Night

One of the most horrible pictures ever penned is William Harrison Ainsworth's description of Jack Sheppard's visit to Bedlam where his mother, hopelessly insane, was incarcerated. Jack, though hardened in crime, was unmoved when he witnessed the distressing condition of the woman who had brought him into the world.

During the past twenty-four hours a picture equally as horrible has been presented in a cell in the station house in this city. A negro woman named Blanche Robinson, who has become mentally unbalanced from the excessive use of stimulants, has produced scenes equally as repugnant as those participated in by the English thief's mother. She began screaming, howling and crying from the time she was placed in confinement, continuing to do so throughout the night, and was pitched at a high key when the Police Court was called to order at nine o'clock this morning. After having been locked up, she concluded to become as Mother Eve, and divested herself of her clothing, and although she was forcibly dressed several times, as soon as left alone she again discarded her clothing, until the officers on duty concluded to let her alone. This morning female friends of the woman appeared and endeavored to clothe her, but she refused their kind offices. The woman will be sent to an asylum, as she is hopelessly insane.

According to the Byrd law, persons who sell liquor to females are liable to be sent to jail for six months and made to pay heavy fines. It seems that in most cases this law is more honored in its breach than in its observance.

Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall was notified last night in Indianapolis, Ind., of his nomination for Vice President on the Democratic ticket and formally accepted the honor. Vice President defended the administration and criticised Hughes and Roosevelt in accepting the nomination.

Business Men and Others Endeavoring to Induce Government to Locate Armor Plant Here

Although nearly every state in the union is endeavoring to land the government armor plant, the business men of Alexandria have much to encourage them in their efforts to secure this great desideratum.

A movement to unite Washington and Alexandria in a campaign to bring the $11,000,000 plant to this city was set on foot by Congressman Carlin and others.

Washington had its hearing before Secretary of the Navy Daniels and the naval board this week. Congressman Carlin was at the Navy Department yesterday to fix a time when Alexandria may present its claims for the armor plant.

An effort will be made by Alexandria boosters to induce Washington boosters to submit a joint brief with Alexandria favoring the latter city.

Thomas Grant, secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, explained that while the business men of Washington were unwilling to abandon their fight to have the armor plant located there, they naturally looked with favor on Alexandria as a second choice.

In outlining the arguments he will make as spokesman for Alexandria when he appears before the board, Congressman Carlin said:

"Alexandria has the advantage of deep water to the sea and a deep water harbor. We have seven railroads. We are situated at the center of pig iron distribution. Pig iron can be brought in from the South or from South American republics as well as from Pennsylvania. This gives us a competitive pig iron market and relieves Alexandria from the dependency on a single source of pig iron supply that would lie against any location in the iron district."

"There is an ideal labor situation in Alexandria. There is the entire agricultural section of Maryland and Virginia to draw labor from."

"Lime and manganese, which enter into the manufacture of armor plate, can be laid down in Alexandria cheaper than at any point competing with us. Coal can be laid down cheaper in Alexandria than in any competing city."

"On the point of safety Alexandria meets all the requirements. The Potomac could easily be mined against naval attack so as to make Alexandria impregnable. Alexandria could not be taken unless the Capital were invaded."

"Alexandria as a site for the armor plant presents the advantage of being under the immediate supervision of the department at Washington, a great advantage considering that this is a virgin field the Navy Department is entering. This would be a big help to the Government not only from the clerical standpoint, but from a practical standpoint."

"The Government already owns property at Alexandria suitable for a site so that there would be no expense from this quarter. The Government has just won a suit giving it title to forty acres of land on the Alexandria deep water river front. Only twenty acres is required for the plant."

Negro Boy Steals Five Hundred Dollars' Worth of Jewelry Yesterday

The police department was notified yesterday afternoon of the theft of two rings—one diamond and the other a pearl set—which had been stolen from Miss Louisa Griffith, residing at 621 Duke street. Officer Snellings and Zell were given charge of the case, and by midnight they had secured the stolen property.

The officers learned that Broders Jones, a 14 year old colored boy, employed by a tailor of this city, had carried some clothing to the house in the afternoon, and there was every reason to believe he had carried off the jewelry. The officers having ascertained the place of his abode, repaired there and having found the boy, asked him if he had the rings. He produced two, which were of brass and worth probably five cents a piece, and alleged they were all the rings he possessed, but upon searching the house the stolen property was found under a washstand. The negro was taken in custody and made to face the Police Court this morning, when the owner appeared and identified the rings, as her property. She stated that the diamond ring was worth between $450 and $500 and the one bearing the pearl at about $10.

Justice Caton sent the boy to the reform school.
